

Health System are invited to Join We're In! 2020 for HPV Cancer Prevention

Healthy People 2020 is here! This year, we are calling upon U.S. health systems to protect adolescent population health by preventing HPV cancers. Only 51% of teens are fully vaccinated against HPV cancers. We can do much better.

The National HPV Vaccination Roundtable invites your organization and public health partners to join us in a national movement to prioritize and improve HPV vaccination. What is We're In! 2020?

The We're In! 2020 Initiative for HPV Cancer Prevention is a national movement to catalyze and support U.S. health systems in protecting adolescents from future cancers. By joining, your organization will be recognized as a cancer prevention leader among peer organizations.

We're In! 2020 is open to any health system in the U.S. that wants to prioritize HPV vaccination, including Integrated delivery systems, community health centers, medical groups, accountable care organizations, and private practices. There is also a role to play for state health organizations, public health partners and HPV/cancer prevention coalitions.

The Healthy People HPV vaccination goal won't be achieved by individual healthcare professionals alone. It will take the power of integrated systems, working together, to achieve national vaccination goals and protect a generation of children from HPV-diseases, including cancer.
